Dear Customer,

Thank you very much for your continuous support.

Recently, many customers have been very concerned about the Chinese government's policy on rare earth control in exported products. We have learned from the Chinese customs that according to the current policy, electronic components or electronic products formed by deep processing are not within the scope of control. And relays belong to deeply processed products, which are not regulated and comply with current policies.

The above statement is hereby made.

Xiamen Hongfa Electroacoustic Co.,Ltd.
